Six Township Residents Plan to Seek Place on Consolidation Study Board

Six Township residents have announced that they will run for the five positions on the consolidation study commission to be passed on this November by Township and Borough voters.

In the Borough, vacation schedules have held up the announcement of candidates, but Ingrid Reed of the Borough Citizens Committee for a Consolidation Study Commission, said this week that some half a dozen Borough residents are interested, and that she expects names to be announced in ten days or two weeks.

Township candidates are Jay Bleiman, Margaret Broadwater, Dean W. Chace, Nancy DiMeglio, James A. Floyd and W Harry Sayen.

Both Mr. Bleiman and Mr. Floyd are former Democratic mayors of the Township. Mr.Chace, a Republican, is a former Township Committee member, and Mrs.Broadwater, a Democrat, also served on Committee. Mr. Sayen is former Republican Mercer County chairman and was a member of the Mercer County Optional Charter Study Commission. Mrs. DiMeglio is former president of the Parent-Teachers Council of the Princeton schools.

Announcement of these candidates doesn't mean the Township slate is closed Anyone may run for a seat on the study commission. Candidates must obtain a petition (from Mr. Bleiman) and have it signed by at least 277 registered voters. That number representts five percent of Township voters who voted in the last election.

In the Borough, those who want to run may obtain a petition from Henry Powsner, Niels Nielsen or Mrs. Reed. Borough petitions need 161 signatures.

In November, voters in each municipality will select five study commissioners, and will also cast "yes" or "no" votes on whether such a study commission should be formed

If voters decide they want a commission to study consolidation of the two Princetons, the ten members of the new group must, within 15 days of election, name a chairman and a secretary, decide where and when to hold regular meetings, and what procedures will be.

State law requires open meetings, inviting "the widest possible public discussion." The group can take testimony, issue subpoenas and compel the attendance of municipal officers from whom it wants information.

Its job, first of all, is to decide on the form of government any consolidated Princeton would have. It must also designate wards or election districts, changes invarious offices and jobs and, of course, determine how the debts of Borough and Township would be jointly assumed

By the end of six months, the commission must make a preliminary report, both to the state's Department of Community Affairs, and to the Princeton governing bodies.

After another month, the DCA will evaluate the Angry Mayor Takes First Steps to Make New Plans For Parking Garage Planning Board Has Rejected

"They think our project stinks–how to deal with that, I don't know.

"I don't think we'll take them to court–any responsible court would say 'Get lost' and tell us to solve our own problems.

"We can go forward and build the garage anyway, and I have legal opinion that says it would be OK, but that would clearly be very unpopular and we'd embark on that course only under the most extreme conditions."

In these words, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley talked to reporters Monday in his first press conference since the Planning Board's 9-1 rejection of the parking garage on July 20. The mayor was vacationing in Vancouver during the hearings, but he kept in touch with some Planning Board members and Borough officials by telephone.

Reporters found the mayor clearly very angry. More than once, he said–each time with a smile–that he would not want to offend anyone by using language that really expressed his feelings.

With members of Council, he will meet this Thursday at 5 with Reeves Hicks, who is serving as the Borough's attorney in this case.

Then, next Monday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall, he and Council will sit down with a group from the Planning Board in the first confrontation since the vote.

Last week, Planning Board head Margen Penick urged a meeting with Borough officials as soon as possible, and the board backed her up. She said at that time that the board was only against that particular garage, and was "ready to go forward" with the Borough.

"The nub is the role of the Planning Board," the mayor told reporters Monday

"We took the board's own Master Plan too literally," the mayor said with some irony. "We assumed that if the Master Plan called for a garage on that site, and documentation called for 750 to 800 cars, that we fully met the Master Plan's objectives.

"One of the issues," the mayor continued, "is–do we want the Central Business District to spread, to extend beyond Moore Street? If it doesn't expand, it must go up."

The lone "yes" vote for the garage, William H. Walker, had said in his pre-vote statement, that in his view, a basic question was whether the present Planning Board still believed in the current Master Plan, and the board's planner, Carleton Ryffel, said on the night of the vote that since the Master Plan had a garage on that site and the plan had not been amended, a garage was appropriate.

The mayor said he and Council will discuss options with the Planning Board on Monday night.

"We must alter the garage concept, in some way," he said, "and minor alterations are not what the board has in mind. I plan to present as a core of our project: 800 cars, 15-25,000 square feet of commercial space, a portion in short-term, customer parking concentrated in the first two floors of the garage and most of the short-term parking in the Witherspoon area, where the need is. The short-term need is not on Chambers Street. Employee parking can go anywhere."

Mayor Cawley added that he was "getting the signal" for two garages, instead of one.

"There is probably no way to meet all our objectives," the mayor conceded. "Customer parking where the merchants say they need it...no parking near the library...PCH's elderly housing near the library, which would mean we'd have no way to provide the extra parking needed...two garages are more expensive, and I think there would be negative neighborhood reaction no matter where we put it, you'd just change the locus."

Turning to the legal questions involved in the Planning Board vote, Mayor Cawley said he had read

Hammer Withdraws from Race for Borough Council–Republicans Will Seek Running Mate for Cornforth

John L. Hammer Jr., one of the two Republicans running for Borough Council, announced this week that he is withdrawing from the contest. He cited "personal reasons."

In a letter announcing his withdrawal, he also said he was involved in "a number of activities that are taking an increasing amount of my time, which precludes the addition of the time burden inherent in campaigning for the office and filling it adequately should I be elected."

Mr. Hammer, who is noted for outspoken comments that are often sharp and blunt at the same time, added that although he is "in reasonably good physical health, I am not certain that my nerves could take the annoyingly petty issues that seem to be arising in the day-to-day government of the municipality.

"At my advanced age the prospect of a peaceful existence is most alluring. Certainly, the tensions generated by membership on the Council would not be conducive to such a desired state."

A member of the public library's board of trustees, Mr. Hammer has been chiefly known over the past few years as a fighter for the library budget and for the library generally. Mr. Hammer is a retired executive of Merck and Company, and a consultant in general management problems

He said he would do everything possible to help the Republican campaign. The other Republican candidate is Charles Cornforth.

Republicans, who must now find somebody to run in Mr. Hammer's place, were faced with the same dilemma two years ago when Maurice Healy withdrew his candidacy. The head of the Borough's Republican County Committee, Christine St. John, says the committee will meet after Labor Day to discuss a replacement for Mr. Hammer. Discussions will also be held with the Republican Club, she said.

"A number of options are open to the party," Mrs. St John commented Republicans have until 40 days before the November election to file a candidate.

work of the commission and make a report to Princeton citizens, assuring them that the commissioners aren't doing anything to jeopardize the fabric of the two communities.

The final commission report is due in nine months—next August. And of course, the group could decide that consolidation isn't a good thing at this time. Election of a commission doesn't determine what its decision will be.

New Garage Planned

"very carefully" a memo for the board prepared by its counsel, Allen Porter.

"My opinion is that our project meets the site review section of the Borough ordinance," the mayor declared. "Porter's memo explained to the board what was not before it for consideration and said that the two chief things to focus on were traffic and the relation of the garage to the environment. He also said the site plan should complement-- not supercede--the zoning ordinance.

"I believe we fairly met the question of traffic effect. The board didn't address at all the issue of the garage's location on the site, but only said the garage was too large. The site plan ordinance doesn't mention size--that was not before the board."

The mayor said he estimated that the Borough has spent $40,000 so far on the garage, including fees to architect John Fujiwara and various consultants. In his view, he said, a two-garage plan would cost more than the rejected plan, both in construction and oepration, and he suggested that a six-month delay is ahead. The Borough had hoped for October groundbreaking.

Financing Feasible. If a municipality can show the state that something like a parking garage will be self-supporting and not a burden on the tax-payers, it is allowed to borrow construction money outside its municipal debt limit.

A few days before the Planning Board vote, the Borough had obtained that approval from the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

A new garage proposal would mean going back to the DCA.

"We came through in Trenton with flying colors," the mayor reported. "We made a responsible pitch and I think they would respond if we have to change."

However, John Laezza, the DCA official who heard the Borough's case, says that next time, the Borough must have Planning Board approval in hand before going to Trenton.

"That's the first question we asked them," Mr. Laezza said. "They told us they didn't think they had any problem with the Planning Board."

"It's an imperfect world," Mayor Cawley concluded. "You try to do the best you can. I don't know where it's going to come out."

ACTION POSTPONED

On Garage Bnnd, Parking Requirements. The Planning Board Tuesday night decided to put off taking action on either the Borough parking garage $4.7 million bond ordinance, or the zoning amendment that would ease parking requirements for people who want to expand their businesses.

On each, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley cast the only "no" vote and Margen Penick abstained. She gave no reason for her abstentions.

Public hearings on both measures were scheduled for Council's August meeting next Tuesday.

Planning boards are required to make recommendations on capital expenditures if a municipality has a Master Plan. Council can't act on the bond ordinance until it receives Planning Board comment, but if the board hasn't acted in 45 days, Council can go ahead. Land-use ordinances, like the change in parking requirements, can't be amended without Planning Board approval. Here, the ordinance can be acted on if the board hasn't moved within 35 days.

By this time -- 35 to 45 days -- the board seemed to feel, there may be a parking garage compromise.

"Time is in favor of compromise in working something out," said Jerome Rose. "We want to be as conciliatory and understanding as we can be, after our negative vote, and not just rub it in. There is good faith on the part of the board to meet parking needs.

Mayor Cawley protested that the ordinance, allowing a developer to provide shuttle-service parking (or to buy space in a garage) didn't necessairily hinge on having a parking garage. Palmer Square has offered to assume financial responsibility for parking: this would put such an offer into law, the mayor said.

HEARINGS TO RESUME
On Medical Arts Building. Briefcases that were snapped shut on a Saturday morning in June will be opened again at 7:30 p.m. this Wednesday when the Township Zoning Board gathers for its third meeting on the proposed Nassau Medical Arts Building. The meeting, a special one called only to hear this case, will be held in the Valley Road Building.

Nassau Medical Arts has described to the board a two-story office building to be built on the triangle of land formed by Route 206, the new Mountain Avenue Extension and the stub of Bayard Lane that will be closed off when the jug-handle, now under construction, has been completed.

The office building, designed by the architecture firm of Short and Ford (principals in Nassau Medical Arts) would comprise 12 suites for doctors and dentists, to be sold on a condominium basis. The white house now standing on the 2.5-acre parcel would be converted to two-family use.

Jeremiah Ford has told the board that there would be parking for 104 patients' cars, 16 doctors' cars and 29 staff cars. They would come and go on a driveway leading into Mountain Avenue Extension, near the road leading into the newly-developed north side of Community Park. A berm, like the one shielding Route 206 from Community Park north, would go along State Road.

Lawyer's Retained. Some home-owners on adjacent streets have retained attorney William Sutphin to represent their protests to the Zoning Board. In addition, Planning Board counsel Allen Porter has been given permission by the Zoning Board to be an "intervener" for the Planning Board.

Police Will Monitor CB Channel 9

Township police have gained another set of eyes and ears, according to Chief Frederick Porter, who reported that his department is now monitoring CB Channel 9, the emergency channel.

A New Jersey Office of Highway Safety grant has enabled the Township department to participate in the program, which is directed toward greater traffic safety. Basically, it is designed for the concerned driver and CB enthusiast to aid police around the clock by reporting traffic emergencies and criminal activity over Channel 9.

"Once it is known we are monitoring Channel 9, it is expected that people will start reporting accidents and suspicious incidents," Chief Porter said. Among incidents he expects to be reported are drunk drivers, hazardous driving conditions, requests for aid, stranded motorists and so on.

Once police receive emergency information over Channel 9 they can, if they wish, switch to another "quiet channel" to converse. It is illegal to converse over Channel 9.

Chief Porter added that the main approaches to Princeton will be posted, informing motorists of the Channel 9 monitoring.

The Planning Board's use variance committee is concerned about the possibility of high turnover traffic if doctors' offices are located on the plot of land. There has also been some indication that the property has been considered as a possible site for high-density housing.

The developers need a use variance from the Zoning Board because the land is in a residential zone.

SEWER REQUEST FILED
For Heather Lane. "It's what I was after—I'm really happy it's going forward," said Heather Lane resident Arthur Brokaw this week, after learning that the Township is filing an application to place a Heather Lane sewer on the state's sewer priority list with a Great Road sewer tie-in.

"I've written Russell Nerlick, in the Department of Environmental Protection, telling him to watch for the Township application," Mr. Brokaw continued. "He's the one who explained to me how the Township could get the Heather Lane project on the priority list, and he's asked to be kept informed."

Mr. Brokaw himself took the application forms to Township Hall after he had received them from the DEP. He said he was dismayed by any implication that he was using the forms as a pawn in a game. He hadn't expected to receive them, he said, and they arrived after he had made his most recent appearance before Township Committee.

Mr. Brokaw said he hoped that the Township makes its cost estimate big enough to cover any contingency.

Several houses on Heather Lane, which is in the Drakes Corner area of the Township, have malfunctioning septic systems or systems that could become so. Princeton's health department has said that the street should have a sewer.

AUTUMN HILL SEWER?
Request Made. Thomas Fulmer, who owns property on Autumn Hill Road, is asking the Township to apply for Federal money to lay a sewer for Autumn Hill residents. His request, which may be followed by a petition, according to Administrator Joseph R. Nini, will be read at Township Committee's meeting this Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The agenda also includes discussion of an agreement with Marketing Survey & Research regarding improvements for a pond which is partially on the firm's new Mt. Lucas Road property. Since the pond straddles several property lines, the Planning Board has suggested that the Township do the needed improvements and assess the property-owners involved.

Assessments for the sidewalk leading up Bunn Drive to Princeton Community Village, will also be discussed. The legal question is whether these walks are assessable since there was never an ordinance providing for assessment.

The Joint Recreation Board will make a formal request to the Township to assume responsibility for the entire north side of Community Park. Since the agency is a joint one, a similar request will be made to the Borough.

Committee expects to receive the petition signed by Township residents who want a consolidation study placed on the November ballot.

On a work session agenda, Committee plans to consider possible ordinances regarding appeals under the land-use ordinance, and revision of surface-water drainage regulations. Hazardous-route busing of students will come under discussion again and so will a proposed sidewalk along part of Bayard Lane.

of Notre Dame High School and an employee of the General Adjustment Bureau in Trenton was taken to Princeton Medical Center, where she died about 11 a. m. from a cerebral concussion and pulmonary hemorrhaging, according to Mercer County Deputy Medical Examiner Dr. Frank Campo.

It is believed that the victim left Charley's Brother Restaurant on 518 Spur accompanied by Charles Morreale, 22, and his brother Frank, 19, both of whom live with their parents in Titusville.

Police found the car wrapped around a large tree at 2 a. m. opposite Cedar Avenue, a short distance from the restaurant. The two brothers were also taken to the Medical Center, where their condition was later described as satisfactory.

The accident is still being investigated by police. There are conflicting reports about which brother was the driver. Hopewell Township Chief Matthew J. Maloney said it was the first accident fatality in the Township this year.

Car Hits Motorcycle. Thomas E. Hofgesang, 23, 20 Forester Drive, has been charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages after his small foreign car struck a motorcycle early last week on Harrison Street near Mershon Drive.

The cyclist, David Young, 20, B4 Lawrence Apartments, was treated at the scene by members of the Princeton First Aid Squad for heavy bleeding from his leg and then transported to the Princeton Medical Center.

According to Ptl. Glenn L. Stanton, who investigated, Mr. Hofgesang's car swerved into the opposite lane and struck the cycle, flinging Mr. Young to the pavement. Mr. Hofgesang told police he continued on for another 150 feet before he stopped, got out of the car and went back to the scene.

Theodore S. Valis, 32 Maple Street, who was also riding a motrocycle, and Tina Carnevale, 190 Bayard Lane, the driver of a car and her passenger, Paul Gallo, 32 Balsam Lane, were witnesses to the mishap.

TAXES IN HOPEWELL

Group Assails Revaluation. "HOT"----the Hopewell Organization of Taxpayers---is working to have Hopewell Township's property revaluation annulled.

The new group, with some 200 members, has decided to hire a lawyer and file an appeal with the Mercer County tax board to have the revaluation average tax increases of 45 percent to homeowners in the township.

Last month, assessor William Cromwell admitted that he had over-assessed about 300 properties and said he would file his own appeal with the county. He said at the time that information he fed into the computer was wrong.

HOT claims Mr. Cromwell has favored big coporations with property in Hopewell Township. Robert Gill, chosen to head HOT, said Western Electric, for example, received a "ridiculously low" assessment.

Assessment on the corporations' 400 acres and its buildings, was increased 21 percent. Mr. Cromwell says he regards this as fair. He explained that an assessment reflects what a property would bring on the market, and large tracts like Western Electric's aren't interesting to developers because of Hopewell's known resistance to development. Hence, the land isn't worth as much as it might seem, he said.

Goodbye, July

The hourglass of Summer goes—
Like sand that sifts
Between your toes.

Summer is almost at the midway point—just over seven weeks left. The past four and a half (named July) were distinctly unusual in that they bowed out with the mean temperature for the month showing a minus sign. Not much, on a cumulative basis—around 55 degrees—but enough so that with the exception of a very few days, it was all quite bearable in a part of the world which, in midsummer, can be much like an oven.

After the badly-needed rain Monday and Tuesday, sunshine and more normal temperatures will return. It won't be as dry again right away—showers late Thursday and into Friday are forecast, with generally fair skies expected for the weekend Long-range, the Man says, August, too, will be somewhat cooler than usual.

HOT WIRES DOWNED

At Harrison and Nassau. Several excited callers reporting hot wires down on Harrison Street near Nassau Monday afternoon sent four patrol cars speeding to the scene.

Police report that arcing wires down in the roadway near the Hook and Ladder building were on fire and blocking exit of Hook and Ladder fire trucks. Three fire trucks from other companies stood by while police notified Public Service. Heat from one wire burned a three-inch hold where it touched the sidewalk.

Public Service had everything under control by 3:15. Police were first notified at 2:38.

LAWN IS DAMAGED

By Errant Car. Considerable damage was inflicted on the lawn and garden of Richard Miller, 825 Mount Lucas Road, last week by a car which apparently failed to negotiate a curve and left the roadway.

Police report tire tracks indicate the car traveled about 60 feet across the lawn into a small garden and then backed out of the garden across the lawn again and returned to Mount Lucas Road. The incident occurred sometime between 11 Friday night and 9:15 a.m. Saturday, when it was discovered.

'NO' TO PARKING

For Nassau Savings & Loan. By a vote of 5-1 last Thursday, the Borough Zoning Board refused to waive a requirement that Nassau Savings and Loan provide 11 parking spaces for its projected use of the property at 186-192 Nassau.

"We'll have to go back to the drawing board---literally," said Walter Foster, president of the savings and loan organization. "We do have an alternate plan that would fit the parking requirements but it would just mean a sea of black asphalt. We'll have to design something that fits parking requirements and is a good-looking building, too."

DRIVER FINED TWICE

In Borough Court. William T. Wynder, 15 Shirley Court, was fined twice Monday in Borough traffic court by Judge Philip S. Carchman.

He paid $60 for speeding and another $60 as an unlicensed driver. In addition, Judge Carchman fined Mr. Wynder $15 for contempt of court on each charge.

Fined $30 each for careless driving were Gwendolyn G. Winchester, 306-53 Emmons Drive, and Margaret W.

800-Foot Fall in Canadian Rockies Kills West Windsor Resident; 16-Year Old Belle Mead Youth Drowns While Swimming in Mexico

A 39-year old West Windsor resident lost his life last week in a mountain-climbing accident in the Canadian Rockies, and a 16-year old Belle Mead youth was drowned while swimmiog with friends in Mexico.

Edward O. Nester, of 7 Fieldstone Road, West Windsor who won heroism awards for saving two stranded mountain chimbers, was killed July 24 in a climbing accident in the Canadian Rockies. Warren B. Huttar, of Tall Cedars Court, Belle Mead, drowned July 23 in a swimming accident while on vacation with friends in Tehauntepec, Mexico.

Mr. Nester fell 800 feet onto a glacier while descending Austerity Mountain, 60 miles northwest of Golden, British Columbia, according to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Mr. Nester's climbing partner, Julius Bede of Lodi, told police that Mr. Nester threw a hook over a rock while descending a steep slope. The rock dislodged and Mr. Nester fell to a glacier 800 feet below, he said.

Mr. Bede and another climbing party were unable to reach the body. It was removed by 15 climbers and a police helicopter, the police said.

Experienced Climber. Mr. Nester had been a mountain climber for 20 years. He attended the Grand Teton National Park climbing school in 1965 and the following year had scaled Mount McKinley, the highest peak in North America.

In March, 1968, he was a member of of a four-man team which rescued two climbers from a sheer ice ledge on Mount Washington, N. H. He and another man braved zero temperatures and 100-mile-an-hour winds to reach two 18-year University of New Hampshire students and lower them to a ravine.

For his actions, he received the Courage Award from the Manchester Union-Leader and the New Hampshire Sunday News, and the Carnegie Hero Fund Award.

Mr. Nester was a senior member of the engineering staff at RCA's Mobile Communications System in Meadow Lands, Pa . He had also worked for RCA Research Laboratories in Penns Neck.

He earned a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from the City College of New York, a master's degree in electrical engineering from Princeton University and had also studied at New York University. He received two engineering honoraries from Eta Kappa Nu and Tau Beta Pi.

Mr. Nester was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in East Windsor where he was a Sunday school teacher. A leader of the Appalachian Mountain Club, he was also a member of the American Alpine Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Joan Herbert Nester; his mother, Mrs. Anna Nester of the Bronx, N. Y.; and two sons, Robert Allen and Edward O. Nester Jr., both at home.

The service was held in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, the Rev. James Egan officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to the Down's Syndrome Congress, 16470 Ronnies Drive, Mishawaka, Ind., or to the Somerset County Unit of the New Jersey Association for Retarded Citizens, Box 382, Manville.

Huttar Youth. Young Huttar was the son of Joan and Daniel D. Huttar. He was born in Mount Holly and had lived in Lawrenceville and in Connecticut before moving to Belle Mead in April. He attended Montgomery High School, where he was active in the Montgomery Players.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, Glen, and a sister, Dana, both at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller of Staten Island, N. Y.

The service was held in Harlingen Reformed Church, the Rev. Wilbur Ivins, pastor, and the Rev. Dr. Wilfred Ward and the Rev. Mel Sabaka of the Bible Baptist Church of Staten Island officiating. Burial was in Rocky Hill Cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Warren Huttar Drama Fund, Montgomery High School, Skillman, 08558.

THEFT REPORT

Chlorine, Hose Stolen. This week's unusual theft culled from police docket larcenies is a 50-pound can of chlorine and a vacuum hose taken during the weekend from an unlocked garage of a Mercer Street resident. The items were valued at $100.

A Nassau Inn employee had four hubcaps stolen from his car while it was parked between 4:15 Monday afternoon and 1:30 Tuesday morning in the lot off Hulfish Street. They were valued at $40 each.

A Cherry Valley Road resident lost an entire car.

Police report a 1971 Dodge Dart, unlocked with the keys left under the seat, was stolen from Witherspoon Street near Hulfish between 3:30 and 9:30 Sunday evening. Also left under the seat was a wallet containing $40.

"Somebody's really ripping off wallets," commented Capt. Theodore Lewis, as he reported the theft last week of an employee's wallet from atop a desk in Firestone Library. The victim, a Township resident, lost $9.

A Linden Lane resident lost $62.10 when someone cut a screen between 10 and 11 in the evening to enter a bedroom window and remove a pocketbook from on top of a dresser.

Another attempted wallet theft at the Public Library last week went awry when an employee saw the suspect remove a wallet from a purse on a desk. Whern confronted, the suspect, a 15-year old Township girl, gave the wallet back, police said.

Ptl. Peter Hanley investigated. Charges will be made, Capt. Lewis said.

Less fortunate was the owner of a bicycle which was stolen in the afternoon from a rack at the Public Library. A wicker basket on the front of the bike contained six books, police said.

A Hightstown resident called police Tuesday morning to report that his carpenter tools valued at $200 had been stolen from Room 100 in Palmer Lab on the university campus.

AUGUST TO BE COOL

Rainfatt Near Normal. Infrequent but locally heavy rainfall and temperatures mostly on the cool side of the normal of 73 degrees are expected for New Jersey during August, according to James Carr, National Weather Service advisory agricultural meteorologist at Rutgers University's Cook College.

"Rainfall this month may average close to the normal of an inch a week," said Mr. Carr, "but there will likely be seven-to 10-day dry spells between periods of wet weather."

deners should expect to irrigate their fields two or three days a week in southern counties and somewhat less frequently in central and northern portions of the state during these periods. Some hot weather is due around the middle of the month, Mr. Carr believes.

Overall, harvesting prospects look fair to good for summer apples, peaches, potatoes, squash, eggplant and peppers. Hay and field corn growth should make good progress in northern and central counties but only fair to good progress in South Jersey, because of lower availability of soil moisture.

After the middle of the month, New Jersey growers may expect increasing problems with mildew and fungi on fruits and vegetables as heavy dew becomes more frequent with the return of longer and cooler nights. Cranberry growers in South Jersey should be alert to the possibility of frost in the colder bogs during the cool spells coming after August 15, Carr said.

William McCleery's 'Match Play' A Solid Hit at Summer Intime

GIVE ME THE MANAGING EDITOR! Or, on second thought, take him away. Alice White as a strong-minded lady publisher has her ins and outs with the managing editor of her paper, in William McCleery's comedy "Match Play," now at Summer Intime.

(John Simpson photo)

William McCleery's "Match Play," which premiered at Murray Theatre Thursday night—the first in Summer Intime's 11-year history—is an entertaining, funny, light comedy in the old tradition. Its use of sharp one-liners, a good old-fashioned cornball plot, quick turnarounds, and a predictably happy ending bring to mind the theatricality of Ferber and Kaufmann in their heyday and the slick stageiness of Neil Simon today.

But although it fares best when judged as stylized comedy, "Match Play" is not a ghost from the past. Its theme, however playfully treated, is current: changing sex roles in American society.

Set "in a publisher's office of a newspaper in a city somewhere west of Philadelphia," the first of the many surprises the play has to offer is that the publisher is a woman. And Lucia Dutton, marvellously played by Alice White, is not just any old woman: tall, sleek, at once cool and sweet, with dark hair and a high-fashion dress garnished with pearls, she looks as if she belongs with one of the Conde Nast publications in New York, rather than with an ailing newspaper somewhere in the hinterlands.

News Of The THEATRES

The newspaper, inherited from her father, and its Managing Editor, Neil Ross, also inherited from her father, (and played to perfection by Lauren Woods), are Lucia's headaches. She wants to get rid of both. But there are obstacles: the paper is threatened with extinction, and before she quits as publisher, she wants to put it on its feet again.

Priorities Listed. But before she can put the paper on its feet, she must put herself on her feet. And this, she believes, requires the removal of her top-notch editor-reporter, Neil, because she feels threatened by him.

Simple so far, but there is a twist: Lucia feels threatened not by Neil's dazzling capabilities as a newspaperman, but by the weak side of herself that is attracted to such a "weak man." She knows that Neil has a history of liaisons with "superior women" like herself, and thus she cannot feel safe working with him knowing that her resistance is low. The fact that she is engaged to marry the New York investment banker Adam Townley has little bearing on the matter; she is

LET'S DO IT MY WAY: Rosie (Pat Russo) and Albert (Brad Caswell) argue about the management of rock and roll star, Conrad Birdie, in this scene from "Bye, Bye, Birdie," which will be seen at the Open Air Theatre in Washington's Crossing State Park. Performances of the Princeton Community Players production are scheduled for August 10, 11, 12 and 17, 18, 19. Rain dates are August 13 and 20, and curtain time each evening will be at 8:30.

Review of 'Match Play'

engaged to him simply because she is tired of the weak men like Neil to whom she is attracted—and because she hopes he can bail out the paper.

It is not easy to get rid of Neil, who has an even greater dedication to the paper than she does. One of the funnier scenes of the play occurs when Lucia gives him a ten-minute chance to convince her—with the history of his miserable love-life—that he is no longer vulnerable to women like herself.

"In ten minutes?" Neil asks. "They say that Neil Ross could tell the entire story of the New Testament in one column," Lucia quips, "and leave space for a picture."

A Stuffy Money-Bag. Nor is it easy to get Adam to finance the paper. Played by Randall Robbins, Adam is Mr. Wall Street incarnate.

He comes to conclusions by "sticking all the information up his computer," and it is pretty near impossible to persuade him that numbers aren't always right. Moreover, he wants Lucia to sell the paper because he wants a housewife, not a working woman. Not surprisingly, sparks fly.

Theatre Intime's production of "Match Play" is excellent. Director Daniel F. Berkowitz has picked a superb cast. Although they are always fighting, the two leads are charming in their cattiness.

The set, designed by Richard Ferrugio, reflects Lucia's character in its classy glass, chrome, and leather furniture, its potted plants, its abstract art, and its wall-unit bar. The rhythm and timing of the lines is also very good. The punch at the end of a line gains impact from a few well-placed pauses, as when Neil commends Lucia, "Good girl!" He pauses, then quickly corrects himself. "Person!"

One way of looking at "Match Play" is as a play about oppositions and competition. Dominance and submission, strength and weakness, superiority and inferiority, hardness and softness, and enemies and friends are among the serious themes couched under the wisecracks.

In relationships, the question invariably comes to, "Who's on top?" Neil or his wives? Lucia or Adam? Lucia or her recalcitrant secretary Betty? (An excellent running gag and use of an off-stage actor device, by the way.) And most important, Lucia or Neil? It's not always easy to say, but we can be sure that gender has nothing to do with it. If what we've seen is the match play of the game, then the game, set, and match must be a draw—or they go to McCleery and Summer Intime.

Princeton Community Players' production of "Bye, Bye, Birdie."

It will open next Thursday, August 10, and will play that weekend and the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Curtain time, as usual, will be 8:30, with rain dates August 13 and 20.

The hysterical, screaming teen-age girls and the swivel-hipped rock star sho's being inducted into the U.S. Army make for a lively evening. Conrad Birdie is played by Dale Travis, with Laurie Sasso portraying the lucky recipient of Conrad's "One Last Kiss." James Danner, Allan Salkin and Marty Salkin play her boy-friend and her parents, who aren't sure her luck is all that good.

Director Susan Tapper and musical director Michael Pratt have a cast which also consists of Pat Russo, Brad Caswell, Marc Pinto, Becky Platzner and Minerva Davenport.

Dorothy Edwards is producer. Dances have been choreographed by Jan Ellsworth and Jerry Longe has executed the set design.

"SHREW" PLANNED

From Shakespeare '70. Carl Wallnau and Colleen Smith had such a good time last summer as Beatrice and Benedick in "Much Ado About Nothing" that they decided to play Petruchio and Kate in "The Taming of the Shrew."

Under the aegis of Shakespeare '70, "The Taming of the Shrew," will open this Thursday in the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing, playing again Friday and Saturday.

Producer Gerald E. Guarnier had John F. Erath as director. Dr. Erath is professor of English at Trenton State and a specialist in Shakespeare, Restoration and Renaissance drama. Jane Hauber has designed the costumes for execution by Rosemarie Foris.

Also in the cast are Sunni Farrington as Bianca, Andrew Hornyak as Hortensio, Lee Harrod as Baptista, Milton Levin as Gremio, Tom Moffit as Grumio, Peter Sterman as Lucentio, Colin Jeni as Biondello, and Johnny Constance, Bruce Robinson, Jane Hauber, David Geisler, John Erath, Chris Erath and Robert C. Douglass.

WHODUNIT?

"Mousetrap" Has Answer. It's now in its 26th year in London, but it will only play two weekends at Summer Intime's Murray Theatre, so catch "Mousetrap" while you can.

Agatha Christie's classic will open Thursday, August 10, at 8:30 and will play that weekend (Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30, 7:30 for Sunday) and the same days the following weekend.

It's the end of summer for Summer Intime, the fourth and last play of the season, replacing the Brecht-Weill musical, "Happy End."

"Mousetrap" is set in a remote country house in England in a snowstorm. The young owners of the house, like other English couples who own "stately homes," are about to take in paying houseguests.

The first batch begins to arrive, and an eccentric crew it is: an architect with the improbable name of Christopher Wren; stiff and proper Major Metcalf; the very disagreeable Miss Boyle; mannish Miss Casewell; an odd gentleman named Paravicini; and, lastly, Detective Sergeant Trotter. He's not exactly an invited guest, but he's interested in a murderer whose favorite song is "Three Blind Mice."

Well, it goes on from there. Nan Bleemer and Len Galla will play the young couple. Shirley Kauffman is Miss Boyle, Jamie Horton is the detective, Katherine Barry is Miss Casewell, Paul Lawrence has the role of Paravicini, Dale Coye is the architect and Clayton Platt, Major Metcalf.

Susie Lewis is the director, and Summer Intime says she is rehearsing her cast by getting them to improvise scenes from the play and from their own lives, in their own native characters, and their "Mousetrap" roles. But the question remains: whodunit?

.....AND UNCUT

Next, at Kresge. About 30 minutes was cut from the "Midnight Cowboy" you saw on television, McCarter says, but if you want to see the whole thing, you may do so at Kresge Auditorium this Wednesday through Sunday.

The 1969 film won Oscars for both Best Picture and Best Director (John Schlesinger). Jon Voight and Dustin Hoffman star.

On the Kresge double bill this weekend is also "Rancho Deluxe," a flip parody-western about a couple of contemporary cattle-rustlers who do their rustling from a pick-up truck. Jess Bridges and Sam Waterston are the pair, and Clifton James and Elizabeth Ashley are in the cast, too.

"Midnight Cowboy," by the way, is "adults only."

Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings, "Rancho Deluxe" will be shown at 7:30 and "Midnight Cowboy" at 9:15. Friday and Saturday, showtimes will be 8 and 9:45.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

For Street Theatre. Auditions are being held at Dorothea House, 120 John Street, for roles in Street Theatre's production of three one-act plays.

Those who want to audition are invited to Dorothea House this Wednesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. Anyone may try out. Additional information is available at 924-7452.

The plays are "Date," by Sam Smiley, which deals with old age; "Lemonade," about a pair of middle-America housewives and their empty lives and "Botticelli," which is concerned with war games.

DISCO DUE

In Summer Sound Series. The rock-disco band "Lotus Blossom" will play Friday at 7:30 at Community Park Field. The concert is part of a series of free outdoor events produced by Summer Sounds. The rain date is August 11.

"Lotus Blossom" is a relatively new band on the rock-disco scene. It was founded by Dennis Alexander, a Princeton native who is a student at Manhattan College and who composes songs, sings lead vocal and plays the keyboards. He is joined by Todd Logan on bass guitar and Jim Allington, percussionist and arranger.

Rounding out the group are Danny Coleman and Steve Bernstein on trumpet and saxophone. Both have worked and recorded with such well-known artists as Valentine, Touch of Class and the Jacksons. The group are said to maintain a high caliber of musicianship and keep an infectious beat going, which makes the music easy to listen to as well as to dance to.

The audience is reminded to bring camp chairs or blankets. The next concert will be on Friday, August 18, when the blue grass band, Rocky Hill," will play in Palmer Square. The final concert will be Friday, September 1, when Castle Browne will play at Pardee Field.

LET'S TALK ABOUT LIGHTNING RODS NOW SAFEGUARD SHADE TREES

by Sam deTuro

More prize shade trees are being protected with lightning arresting systems than ever before.

Tall trees on hilltops, or in exposed areas, and thoses dominant in landscaping around a home, are prime attractants for lightning bolts. Oak, Elm, Pine, Ash, Poplar and Maple are rated in that order of lightning susceptibility.

The danger of lightning striking a tree is not only to the tree itself, but to persons and structures under or close to a tree during an electrical storm. one-fourth of all the 350 deaths attributed to lightning in the country every year occur among persons near or under a tree.

A tree can be turned into a giant lightning rod with lightning protecttion. This does not prevent a tree from being struck; it provides a safe path for an electrical discharge from and to the clouds and earth with no damage to a tree.

Some lightning-hit trees can be restorerd to health by barktracing to loose bark, followed by a feeding and other treatment. Lightning-srtuck trees may die suddenly, or slowly over a long period. Others hit by a "cold" stroke may not be badly injured.

Jaycees Seek Financial Aid and Manpower To Aid in Building Fitness Trail for All

The Princeton Jaycees are embarked on a project to create a fitness trail in Community Park North. They have the enthusiastic backing of the Recreation Department and the Joint Recreation Board, and they are seeking financial help and additional manpower from the community.

A fitness trail combines walking or jogging for cardiovascular fitness with exercises for overall conditioning and muscle tone. The Jaycees plan to use an existing path winding through woods and pine groves on the north side of the lake. Atong its mile and one-half loop will be incorporated 20 exercise stations.

At each station there will be a different piece of equipment designed to exercise one part of the body and posted instructions on how to do the exercise and how many times to repeat it, depending on the experience and physical condition of the user.

According to Ken Abrams who works in Harrison Fraker's architectural office and is the Jaycee member in charge of the project, the program is adaptable to people of all ages and degrees of fitness. At the station for sit-ups, for instance, there will be two long logs—actually telephone poles—placed on supports to raise them just off the ground.

For All Ages and Abilities. One log is to sit on, and the other to hook the feet under, similar to hooking under the rungs of a chair when doing sit-ups for maximum effect at home. The two logs will converge, so that children with short legs and adults with long ones can both use it by sitting in different places on the log. The exercises proceed from a series of warm-ups to more demanding muscle strengtheners and end with cooling-off exercises.

The program is self-paced and non-competitive and allows each person or group of people to progress from simple to more difficult routines without undue strain. Tennis shoes and loose, comfortable clothing are all that the user needs to wear. Mr. Abrams says, "We want to encourage everyone to use the trail."

Fitness trails are very popular in Europe and are just beginning to catch on in this country. There is one in Newton, Mass., and a Jaycee chapter built one with the help of J.C. Penney Company in Birmingham, Ala. A number of firms have come to market with package offerings which include the instructional signs, some of the equipment and instructions on how to build the rest.

The Jaycees are using Life Course as developed by a non-profit foundation in Boston called Management Sciences for Health. The instructional signs show a stick figure doing each exercise, and there are verbal instructions as well. The equipment is made of solid wood, designed to blend in with the environment and to make for easy maintenance and resistance to vandalism.

Mr. Abrams projects that the trail can be finished by early fall, but says the critical factor is how soon the necessary funds can be raised and materials obtained. The Jaycees are providing the management skills and most of the manpower for the project—they turned out on a very hot Sunday recently and spent the morning clearing the trail—the funding has to come from the community.

The package costs somewhere between $2 and $3,000. Mr. Abrams hopes that enough additional funds will be received so that an account in the name of Friends of Princeton Fitness Trail can be set aside for any maintenance that is needed.

Surface Questioned by Runners. Although the project has the wholehearted support of the Recreation Board and Department, there have been a few complaints from joggers who say a true running surface using very fine gravel screenings should be installed. Mr. Abrams points out that the work the Jaycees are now doing in clearing underbrush from the trail, widening it in some places and installing the equipment once they have the funds to buy it does not preclude adding a special surface at some later date.

"There is a difference between preparing a running area for fitness and real running track for serious runners," Mr. Abrams says. He thinks that putting down such a surface would add another $10,000 and require the use of heavy road equipment, "and that is beyond the scope of what we can handle," he says.

Those wishing to make a tax deductible contribution of money or materials for the fitness trail, and others interested in working with the Jaycees on actual construction are invited to call Mr. Abrams at 924-0238 in the daytime or 393-4025 in the evenings. Patricia Kidd, chapter president, is also available at 921-3092, daytime, or (201) 359-3062 in the evening.

MUSEUM TRIP PLANNED

Tuesday by Art Association. A "no frills" bus trip to museums in New York is planned by the Princeton Art Association for Tuesday.

An innovation on the P.A.A.'s art tour program, this one-day junket is planned as a summer-time convenience. Several stops will be made on the ingoing and return trips, which will cost $8 for members of the association, and $9 for non-members—a savings over public transportation. Reservations should be made immediately by phone to the P.A.A., at 921-9173.

A chartered bus will leave the Princeton Shopping Center (Acme end) at 8:30 and return at approximately 5:30. The first stop in New York, at 10 will be the American Museum of Natural History, where an exhibit of "Ice Age Art" includes photomurals of the cave paintings of Lascaux and Altamira. There is also an exhibit on bird-watching. The many new side-walk cafes near this museum offer a choice for early lunch. The 79th Street bus, for the short trip across Central Park, can he caught at 81st and Central Park West, directly behind the Museum.

Stop No. 2, at 10:15 will be the Cooper-Hewitt Museum at Fifth Avenue and 91st Street (open at 10, and free on Tuesdays.) "A Celebration of Water" is the new show here. At the nearby Guggenheim Museum (open at 11) there are European paintings from the Evelyn Sharp Collection and a retrospective of the work of Alberto Burri, the Italian abstractionist.

Other Opportunities. Stop No. 3, at 10:20, will be at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. "Images of Women: Master Drawings of Five Centuries," includes 90 works from the Lehman Collection. There is also currently a show of Japanese Export porcelain, and "Vanity Fair" continues in the Costume Institute.

At the Whitney Museum, within walking distance at Madison and 75th, (opens at 2), visitors can see "Art About Art"—works by contemporary artists using other art as subjects, with "Mona Lisa" the favorite.

At Stop No. 4, at 10:30, the bus will drop passengers at the Museum of Modern Art (open at 11), where the special show is "Artists and Writers," portrait drawings of 20th century American and European authors, painters and sculptors.

The Museum of American Folk Art, next door on 53rd Street, opens at 10:30, with the feature a show of traditional folk art on the dominant motif of the heart.

Pick-ups for the return trip will be 3:45 at the Museum of Natural History; 4 at the Metropolitan Museum; and 4:15 at the Museum of Modern Art.

Leigh Overton is the Art Association chairman for art tours, and Lee Harr is in charge of the trip on Tuesday.

PHOTOGRAPHS ON VIEW

At MCCC. "Four Women Photographers," an exhibition of black and white and color photographs, is being shown in the Library Gallery at Mercer County Community College's West Windsor campus through August 14. The photographs are the works of Mary Cross, Anne Demarais, Heidi Jain and Joni Jones.

Mr. Cross studied photography at the Louisville School of Art in Kentucky and at the International School of Photography in New York. She has participated in shows at the Princeton Historical Society, Bainbridge House and at the Present Day Club.

Ms. Demarais directs the Demarais Studio and first exhibited her photographs at the International Print Society in New Hope last year. She has since shown her prints at the Princeton Art Association's juried photographic exhibitions, where she was awarded an honorable mention, and at this year's Mercer County juried photography competition, where she received a purchase award.

Ms. Jain teaches at the YMCA and has studied with Philippe Halsman and Lisette Model. Although Ms. Jones has had no formal schooling in photography, she won two honorable mentions for her photographs in the Spectrum Newspaper Photography Contest.

Speculation Charged.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

When TOWN TOPICS first started to estimate the value of the St. Andrews Chambers Street property, it compared it with the recent sale of an income-producing commercial property--which comparison had no relevance.

Now TOWN TOPICS' reporter has done it again--by turning what should have been a news story into one of pure speculation. The first story was ignored, but such irresponsible writing can not be unanswered a second time.

The writer of this story, which appeared front page on July 26, must have gone to considerable trouble without learning anything factual since the two principals refused to admit anything except that negotiations were in progress, so the reporter was forced to engage in fantasy. Such fantasy involved an "informal" suggestion by a phantom real estate agent that the property might be worth a certain figure, but that the building had limited utility for any other use than for a church--an astounding judgment since the building is a church.

The fantasy is even more astounding since one of the factors usually considered in an appraisal is the replacement cost, which in this case would probably close to $2,000,000.

Any such speculation indulged in recklessly by the writer about the value of a property when negotiations are in progress can only be labeled as irresponsible journalism. If such a story were printed about negotiations in progress for sale of a private commercial property, the newspaper would no doubt find itself in legal difficulties.

We are sorry that the facts were not interesting enough to the reporter to provide a story, however we are confident that the principals in the negotiations recognize the story for what it was--a case of a reporter reaching too far and failing to stick to reporting.

Thoughts on 'Think About It.'

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mrs. Bretnall's "Think About It" column in last week's TOWN TOPICS questions the validity of appointed boards having some power to shape the future of Princeont. Though neutral in form, Mrs. Bretnall's column was not neutral in content. I believe we should think again about this question.

1) Our Planning Board, though appointed, is not remote from people. Four of the 124 members are elected to either Borough Council or Township Committee and sit on the Planning Board ex officio. The other members are appointed by the elected mayors and confirmed by Borough Council or Township Committee. The longest term is five years; most are three years. Appointees need not be reappointed by the mayors if they have not performed well.

2) As a general proposition, appointed bodies are less subject to negative political pressures than elected bodies. They can exercise independent judgment, free of political considerations. They do not have to respond to the most powerful pressure group or to the political interests with the most money to contribute to future campaigns.

3) Appointed officials may well have more depth of specialized planning knowledge that elected members. They are in part selected for this knowledge. And they certainly are as likely to work as hard. One thing was evident during the three meetings the Planning Board held on the issue of a massive 800-car garage: The members of the Planning Baord were dedicated, hard-working volunteers - people who had read volumes of materials, search the ordinances and their consciences, and reached a difficult decision. Elected officials could not have done a better job.

4) We have many appointed boards in this town. There are the Sewer Operating Committee, the Rent-Levelling Board, the Zoning Boards of adjustment, as well as the Planning Board, to name a few. Surely Mrs. Bretnall does not expect people to run for office for all of these jobs, yet all of these boards shape our town. We have a hard enough time finding candidates for Borough Council - and that, at least is a salaried position.

5) The housing issue was not, and should not properly have been, part of the garage decision. At least not this garage decision. Those of us who believe in the need for housing for the elderly should not fall into the logical trap of those who argue that there can be no such housing without this garage. It simply does not follow. As Planning Board members made clear, their votes against this hulking garage design were not votes against housing for the elderly. In any event, as the Board Attorney made clear, the Planning Board could not legally have considered the two together.

Mrs. Bretnall apparently believed that Planning Board should have decided the garage issue differently. It seems to me that she should attack the decision, not the individuals who made it or the way the Planning Board is constituted. Personnly, I am grateful that our town has citizens, usually knowledgable and always dedicated, who are willing to conduct the town's business through its Boards. I believe I would feel that way even if the Planning Board had voted for the garage.

Bike Paths Are Faulty.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am a frequent bicyclist and, more recentiy, moped operator. I have concluded that the large effort and funds being spent on bicycle paths fail to meet the need that most area cyclists have.

Much ecologically-sound cycling is done for commuting, shopping or physical fitness. These needs cannot usually be satisfied by a limited number of predetermined bike paths, scenic though they may be.

There is, however, a ready solution for the travel problem of the serious cyclist: adequate roads and shoulders. A good shoulder enables cycle and car each to proceed at its own pace without interference or frustration.

It is a tremendous boon to safety and pleasure. It is also a great benefit to the occasionally stalled motorist. Where shoulders do not exist, at least a well-surfaced road will enable the cyclist to maintain his speed and avoid the necessity for sudden swerves to miss road defects.

Unfortunately too many roads are in hazardous condition and often the shoulders that exist are worse. One of the few adequate roads for cyclists in the Princeton area is Washington Road between the canal and Route 1.

It has a well-marked shoulder in reasonably good condition and a main traffic lane of adequate width. One feels perfectly safe cycling on the shoulder even with traffic whizzing past at the legal 50 mph.

Contrast this with the corresponding stretch of Harrison Street; the shoulder has crumbled in most places and the main road surface is a menace even to cars. Almost as bad is the surface of Nassau Street from Snowden Lane to Harrison Street.

Kingston Road east of Snowden shows a typical problem—the shoulder is not too bad, but it is randomly spotted with fissures or loose gravel patches that force the cyclist on to the main road. Washington Road from Prospect Ave. to Faculty Road is a real disaster since big potholes have been patched with asphalt that has flowed out of the holes, creating the double hazard of a raised mound adjacent to a deep depression. Washington Road south of Route 1 had a decent shoulder, but the sewer connection cuts in front of each house have been poorly paved leaving a series of interruptions in the road surface. Harrison Street north of the lake has no shoulder, but there is room for cycles and cars—until that big step in pavement level which even a generous dabbing of asphalt has not eliminated.

I'd like to leave the following appeal with the area municipal (and county and state) road departments. In the interest of encouraging cycling and providing for its safety, fix the shoulders, sweep off the collected gravel, patch the fissures and holes level with the road surface, eliminate abrupt changes in road elevation.

Three Medical Schools Now.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I was pleased to read the article on the "Greater Understanding of Death" in the July 12, 1978, issue of TOWN TOPICS.

In the informative section on the Princeton Memorial Association, reference was made to the "two New Jersey medical school." I wish to advise you that New Jersey now has three medical schools. The third and newest medical school within the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ) is the New Jersey School of Ostopathic Medicine (NJSOM). The 24 students in the inaugural class of NJSOM completed their first year of medical studies in the 1977-78 academic year.

The osteopathic medical students study human anatomy in the first year of the four-year curriculum which is largely sbared with the Rutgers Medical School at the Piscataway campus of CMDNJ. As the size of the osteopathic medical class increases, the need for donated human bodies will grow. Residents of New Jersey who wish to consider the possible donation of their bodies for medical teaching purposes may contact the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, New Jersey School of Osteopathic Medicine, P.O. Box 55, Piscataway, New Jersey 08854; telephone (201) 564-4300.

A brief word of gratitude and thanks for the help given me at my home on the evening of July 12, 1978. The alertness of the crew led by your Chris Eldridge was indeed a welcome feeling not only to myself but to my family.

Enclosed is a donation which I'm sure can be used toward the wonderful work done in our community for the benefit of our community.

ENGLISH SHOP CHOSEN

For Energy Audit. The English Shop at 32 Nassau Street was used as an instructional laboratory for an energy conservation workshop held at Drumthwacket last week.

The New Jersey Department of Energy sponsored the two-day workshop to teach energy conservation methods for small businesses to 35 participants from various state and county government agencies. Representatives of two consulting firms of the United States Department of Energy—Mariscal and Company of Washington, D.C. and Xenergy of Lexington, Mass.—conducted workshop sessions in the many areas where small businesses can effect energy savings, such as in lighting, heating, cooling and refrigeration.

Part of the workshop's program was an energy audit conducted at the English Shop. The audit illustrated types of energy waste in typical retail establishments and showed where there are areas for improvement.

The clothing store is considered typical because it uses both fluorescent and incandescent lighting, has several air conditioners, and several oil furnaces and hot water heaters. There are apartment dwellings above the store.

The audit of the English Shop, led by William Henry of Xenergy, discovered that the store's lighting was a major area for potential savings. The present lighting system could be replaced with new fluorescent fixtures placed in strategic positions. This measure would lessen the actual number of fixtures needed for lighting without affecting the color rendition of the merchandise.

Another energy saving suggestion was to consolidate some of the hot water functions of the different hot water boilers. At present, one large boiler heats most of the building, including the apartments upstairs. In the summer a huge furnace, which heats the water, must be kept on just to supply hot water to the tenants. If a smaller hot water heater supplied the tenants with water, the larger furnace wouldn't have to be kept on, thereby cutting down on energy costs.

Besides these energy saving suggestions, the workshop consultants will provide store owner Eric Mihan Sr., with a written report on other energy saving improvements that could be made at the English Shop. The report will include calculations of potential savings in one year for implementing these conservation measures, as well as a long term estimate of savings over a 10-year period.

DEMAND EXISTS

For Computer Specialists. According to a mid-year survey of more than 4850 firms across the U.S., including more than 80 Princeton-area corporations with major computer installations, an unprecedented demand exists for the programmers, analysts, managers and other data processing personnel and executives who are responsible for the care and feeding of the nation's computers.

The annual survey, conducted by Fox-Morris Personnel Consultants of Route 1, shows this year's need for data processing specialists has jumped 21.7 per cent over '77 demand, itself a record-demand year.

At the top of the wanted list are programmers of every type—the specialists who "instruct" the computers to perform various functions by feeding them the proper "programs." Close behind the programmers, both nationally and in the Princeton area, are systems analysts, telecommunications specialists, new computer science graduates, accountants with computer know-how, and various levels of EDP managers.

According to the study, demand for programmers is particularly heavy in the 2-5 year experience bracket, notes Fox-Morris vice president Norman LaBounty, whose offices are located in Princeton.

Of all the factors contributing to the current demand-over-supply personnel imbalance in the data processing field, according to Mr. LaBounty, none is more far-reaching than the rapid and revolutionary technological strides constantly being made within the $41 billion-a-year computer business itself.

Newest among the new electronic wizardry is the "miracle chip"—a wafer-thin, postage-stamp sized alchemy of silicon and circuitry with the full data-processing capacity of room-sized computers of 25 years ago.

She Came to Study Chinese Art, Will Leave as Cook and Author

That cooking is an expression of the culture of a country is exemplified in the experience of Barbara Tropp of 263 Harrison Street.

Ms. Tropp came to Princeton to study Chinese art and archaeology as a graduate student in the art history and West Asian studies departments at Princeton University. She is leaving this month with a contract from the company that makes Cuisinart food processors to write a cookbook on the use of the processor in authentic Chinese cooking. She also has been signed to do articles on Chinese culture and cooking for their "Cooking" magazine.

For the past three years, Ms. Tropp has catered Chinese cooking here under the name "Orchid," which is a translation of the Chinese name given to her by the first woman she met in Tawaian. Ms. Tropp spent two years studying poetry and language at Taiwan University and lived as a daughter with two different Chinese families.

The patriarch of one family, a 73-year old man with two wives, 12 children and what Ms. Tropp calls "quite an appetite," is the subject of her first article which is appearing in the August issue of "Cooking." The article contains recipes as well as the stories and bits of philosophy she learned from the old man. The November-December issue will feature the Province and the cooking of Hunan as she learned it from James and Lucy Lo of Princeton.

Barbara Tropp
Two years in Taiwan meant a whole new life

Comfortable in Chinese Culture. On her return to Princeton in 1973, Ms. Tropp experienced the dislocation and the difficulty readjusting to American ways typical of many who have immersed themselves in a very different culture for an extended period. She began spending time using her newly-acquired skills in Mandarin with Chinese families in town and wandering around Chinatown in New York City. She says her happiest moments were with Chinese people with whom she was comfortable to a degree she had not been in her own culture.

She also began cooking in the Chinese style that she had so much enjoyed while she was in Taiwan. By reading cookbooks and asking questions of her Chinese friends--Ms. Tropp reports that Princeton has several "excellent" Chinese cooks–she gradually acquired a large enough repertoire of dishes to consider catering on the side.

An ad in TOWN TOPICS produced her first clients, the late Leonard Etz, a Princeton lawyer, and his wife. Ms. Tropp arrived at the Etz's home with her 12-inch wok to cook a dinner for 26 people on an electric stove. Despite the fact that fried rice erupted all over the kitchen floor and the meal lasted five hours in "riotous disarray," the evening was a complete success, and the guests formed the core of her future catering clientele.

Meanwhile she continued her course work in East Asian studies and found that catering required a certain "gutsiness" that was a good antidote to the incubated atmosphere of studying for her general examinations for the Ph.D. Mr.Tropp had always planned to be a teacher. Having approached all the area secondary and adult schools with offers to teach courses in various aspects of Chinese culture to no avail, she now incorporated her teaching into her catering.

Eating in Context. She would recite a favorite Chinese poem about wine or tell a story about chrysanthemum tea. The old man in Taiwan had counselled her that the appetite was a matter of three things: what the eyes saw, what the nose smelt and lastly what one ate. Thus a dish carries with it a whole range of associations.

She found that people would be hungry for dishes and tastes that were otherwise strange if they were presented in context. "It I served a dish with red peppers and told them nothing," she says, "they would be appalled by the hotness. It I served it with a dish that was cool and bland and explained to them about yin and yang, the blending of opposites, which is the Chinese way, then they would be interested in trying it."

The average number she catered to was 12, but once she catered to 40 and it took her two weeks to recover. On that occasion, Toba Bierman, wife of a Princeton pediatrician and a student in the cooking classes she conducted in her home, offered to help. Mrs. Bierman brought along her Cuisinart processor and in very short order the many pounds of tomatoes and musnrooms necessary for a soup were reduced to the proper size.

Ms. Tropp bought herself a Cuisinart and after finding that it was excellent for pureeing shrimp for a paste, grinding pork or slicing vegetables in different sizes, she wrote to the Cuisinart company suggesting the cook boo. She specified that she wouldn't be interested in doing such a book unless it featured authentic Chinese dishes, as opposed to Americanized Chinese cooking, and the company agreed.

Moving to Coast. Although the editorial offices of the company are in Connecticut, Ms. Tropp will be moving to San Francisco. It is time for a change, she thinks, and besides, there is a large Chinese population in San Francisco and another Chinatown to explore.

As for her Ph.D. degree, she has completed all the necessary course work and general exams. Her thesis was originally to be literary criticism of Chinese poetry, but it has now shifted to the study of Chinese tea culture. "We know lots about the Japanese tea ceremony," she says, "but very little about its Chinese origin."

She says there was a shift from a wine culture to a tea culture inChina which occurred about the time of the change from the Tang to the Sung dynasty, and her thesis will explore the reasons for the shift.

She reports that her advosirs in the East Asian studies department "who love to cook and to eat," are enthusiastic about the change her life has taken because "whatever you are studying you are not far from Chinese food."

"It was nice to come for an academic education and leave as a cook" she says with an air of contentment.

CONTE'S IN FINALS

Of Softball Playoffs. Conte's Bar advanced to the final playoff round in the Princeton Adult Softball league last week by defeating Mike's Tavern, two games to none, in the semi-finals.

In the other semi-final, Center Sports, the regular season champion, and Continental Squire Club are tied at 1-1 in the best-of-three series.

Conte's advanced with an 11-8 victory over Mikes which was insured by back-to-back homers by John Pesce and Rob Lucas in the seventh inning. Pete Ferrara also homered for Conte's and Walt Brower drove in three runs to make a winner of pitcher Jeff Grover.

Clutch hitting in the early going by Eric Eikrem, Nort Parker, Paul McKenna and Billy Staats had kept Mike's hopes alive. Conte's Mike Boonin robbed Steve Petrone of a home run for the game's outstanding defensive play. John Leiggi took the loss.

In the opening game, Conte's outlasted Mike's, 11-10, in eight innings, Grover getting the win over losing pitcher Al Matlack.

Conte's jumped to a 5-0 first-inning lead but Mike's came back to take leads of 7-5 and 9-8, turning a triple play in the fifth to end a Conte threat.

Conte's ralled in the seventh on two-out singles by Jim Reese and Ray Clark after Pesce had singled. Walt Brower followed with another single for what would have been the game-winning run but Eikrem's strike cut down Reese at the plate to send the game into extra innings.

In the eighth, Eric Jahn's hit sent Greg Robinson home with the winning run. Clark batted 4-for-4 for Conte's while Ron Zielinski homered for Mike's.

Center Sports overcame a 4-1 deficit in its opening game with CSC and broke a 6-all tie in the sixth inning on one of Brendon Layton's three hits to win, 8-6. The victors' Ray Pettus contributed three hits and Jamie Petrone a home run. Lou John Rossi got the win.

Rossi and Pete Young were locked in a pitcher's duel in the second game until seventh-inning singles by Tommy Thomas, Kevin Marshall and Darryl Boone brought CVSC a 4-3 win. Ernie Henderson, Dane Black and Marshall were defensive standouts for the victors.

SHOWDOWN TIME

In Women's Softball. As the Princetnn Women's Softball league enters its final week, three games remain for undefeated Koffee Kup and runner-up Sweet Jersey Corn. The two contenders meet for the first time this year in the final two games.

Koffee Kup extended its streak to 30 straight last week defeating Kingston Wine twice, 13-6 and 13-5, and winning a forfeit from Landau's. Kelsey Craig and Vernell Carr led the Kup in the first win and Lisa Yates with a homer, triple and two doubles, starred in the second.

Jersey Corn crushed Brener Brothers, 24-5, as every player hit safely. A forfeit from Brener Brothers and an 11-0 shutout of Ivy Inn Sunday stretched Jersey Corn's streak to six.

Community Liquors and the Zephyrs traded a pair of one-run victories. Zephyrs taking the first, 7-6 behind the hitting of Wendy Ottey and Linda Baldino. In the second, the Zephyrs squandered a 12-5 lead.

In the last inning, with two away, a dropped liner kept Community alive and Hannah Rodweller blasted a two-run homer to send the game into extra innings. After a Zephyr score in the ninth, Dee Wells and Elizabeth Zingg singled in two runs to give Community a thrilling 15-14 win and end its eight game losing streak.

Conte's took two from Landau's and defeated Brener Brothers, 15-3, to stay in third place. Debbie Breithaupt and Peggy Wood led the hitting for Conte's.

Kingston Wine dropped into a tie for fifth place after losing its fifth straight as Community Liquors won, 8-7, and Ivy Inn mauled Triple-A Taxi, 17-8, but fell victim in a return match, 8-5.

Triple-A kept its playoff hopes alive by defeating the Zephyrs, 11-5, as Terri Halpin batted in four runs and Betty James excelled on the mound.

Rutgers vs. Princeton: $9

Rutgers University, which achieved a first with Princeton 109 years ago when it launched intercollegiate football, has set another precedent.

When the Scarlet plays host to the Tigers at the Giants Stadium in the Meadowlands on September 30, it will mark the first time that tickets to a Princeton game will cost $9. The figure is $3 more than it has cost to see the game in Palmer Stadium.

Tickets will also be on sale for $7 and $5, but no price for which Princeton sets policy for its games here has ever exceeded $7. Yale is now charging $8 for its game with the Tigers in the Bowl, with a $4 general admission fee. Top prices for Princeton games in Palmer Stadium this season are $7 for Dartmouth and Harvard, $6 for Penn and $5 for Brown and Colgate.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You by John Bernard

Although there was some talk earlier this year that the Oakland A's might set the all-time major league baseball record for the lowest home attendance for a season in history, no big league team will probably ever again match the record set in the American League by the old St. Louis Browns in 1935 ... The Browns that season drew a total of only 80,922 people at home all year ... Today some big league teams draw that many in one weekend.

Minor league baseball seems to be making a strong comeback ... This summer there are 160 U.S. cities with minor league teams in 19 leagues—and that's the highest number of teams in 20 years.

Here's a quiz for you ... Only one player in baseball history ever won the Most Valuable Player Award in the National League one year, and in the American League another year ... Who's the only man to do it? ... Answer is Frank Robinson who was MVP in the National League in 1961, and in the American League in 1966.

itself of one of the eight spots by crushing Tubesales, 17-4.

Joe Frangipani led the victors to their tenth win of the season by going four for four and contributing key defensive plays. In another crucial game, Cities Service downed FMC, 11-6. This knocked FMC out of a three-way tie for second place in the American division with CS and Norelco.

ETS remained the only undefeated team in the league by beating ERC, 18-5. McGraw-Hill and Firmenich stayed on top of their respective divisions by winning 14-9 and 13-7 over PARC and Johnson & Johnson.

In other games involving teams that still have a chance to make the playoffs, American Can got by GFDL, 13-8; RCA smothered National Lead, 16-4; and Squibb defeated EMR, 13-6.

ROMA ETERNA REPEATS

As PYBA Champion, Roma Eterna repeated as champion of the Princeton Youth Baseball Association league last week when it blanked Engine Company No. 3, 14-0, the only team that had a chance to force a playoff.

After two scoreless innings, Roma produced a run in the third. The fireworks began in the fifth. Andy Bing led off with a triple—one of two three-baggers for him during the game—and when Ned Diamond connected for a three-run homer a short while later, Roma had a 4-0 lead.

Roma turned it into a rout in the sixth and final inning by sending ten more runs across the plate. Jeremy Stein collected three singles for the victors, while rookie Mark Elliot had one. Jacob Farmer and Desmond both added doubles.

Winning pitcher Dino D'Angelo gave up only one hit and got two himself.

In other games in the final week of play, Engine Company No. 1 defeated Post 76, 4-2, as Jamie Van Raalte slugged a three-run homer for No. 1 and Robert Bosely singled twice for the losers, and Century 21 outlasted the Elks, 14-12.

David Cassidy and John Jaffee both stroked triples for Century 21, while Mickey Hannon, Monica Greenland and Darrell Hemingway all hit doubles. Ravi Babu homered and Fiona Little played a fine defensive game for the losers.

The Eagles gained a tie for third place by blasting Italian-American, 15-10. Winning pitcher Michael Petrone had three singles and Brian Bittner added two hits for the Eagles. Teammate Rich Sferra contributed a home run.

The PYBA 11 and 12-year old All Stars were victorious in their first tournament game, defeating Westfield, 5-2. Among the 13 hits collected by the victors were homers by Scott Roberts and Mickey Carnevale. Roberts got credit for the win.

DIVISIONS DECIDED

In American Legion League, it will be the Trenton Schroths, winner of the Southern Division, against Lawrence Post 414, the Northern Division winner, for the Mercer County American Legion league championship.

Princeton Post 76 won one of three games in the final week of play. The team, which saw its title hopes dashed when it suffered a series of one-run defeats during the season, had to endure another one Saturday as Hopewell Post 339 scored four runs in the bottom of the last inning to nip Princeton, 9-8.

Princeton had sent six runs across in the eighth inning to take a three-run lead but Hopewell, last year's Northern Division champion, came right back. Sandy Steward doubled home two runs and later came right back.

scored on Rob Brost's triple to tie the game. Then after two intentional walks a third walk forced home the winning run.

Earlier, Princeton used a four-run fifth inning to defeat Ewing Post 314, 6-3, combining three Ewing errors and singles by Keith Phox and Bob Easton. Al Kandell got the win, limiting Ewing to six hits.

Third baseman Tom Ferguson led the Princeton attack with three hits while Easton and Shortstop Jon Miller had two each.

Still earlier, it was Princeton's turn to be the victim of the big inning, as the Lawrence Malls scored all but one of its runs in the fifth for a 6-3 win. One came on a single by Mike Donnelly, two more on bases-loaded walks and two more on an error.

Kandell drove in two of Princeton's three runs with a pair of hits. Ferguson also had two and Miller one, as Lance DuVaul limited Princeton to five safeties. Jon Luse took the loss.

WINNERS NAMED

In Girls' Tennis Open. The Princeton Girls' Tennis Open reached its climax last week as the finalists met at the University Pagoda Courts.

Princeton's Kirsten Beske fared well in the girl's 14-and-under singles event, reaching the quarter-finals before being upset by Mary Dineen who went on to win the tournament. Unseeded Mary was an unknown player visiting Princeton. Other area girls competing in the 14-and-under event were Amy Hutchison, Julie Schwartz, Lynne Harkness, Kitty Ager, Margaret Petrella, Patty Dinella, Lisa Litt, Lisa Carpi, Cessie Vollen, Rhonda Albert and Karen Lytle. Sue Bednar of Hightstown reached the finals before bowing to Dineen.

In the girls' 16-and-under event, Zenia Matkiwsky and Amy Lambros battled for two and a half hours before Matkiwsky won, 7-6, 7-6. Zenia was an unseeded player from Short Hills. Princeton was represented by Debbie Blair, Margaret Rowe, Diane Aronovic, Susannah Robins, Sara Schaeffer and Suzanne Usiskin.

In the 18-and-under event, Vera Jesser of Princeton reached the semi-finals before being defeated by first seed, Paula Johnson. Johnson went on to win after a match against fifth-seeded Debra Wong. Other area participants in the 18-and-under singles were Melanie Thompson and Karen Clark.

SWIMMERS UNBEATEN

For Third Straight Year. Nassau Swimming Club completed its third consecutive undefeated season with two victories in the final week of the regular Princeton Area Swimming and Diving Association dual meet season. Against Community Park, winners for Nassau were: Jeff Krisa, Shelley Chu, Chris Daughney, Sandy Danielson, Abby Harris, Val Van Horn, John Healy, Becca Dyson, Susan Harris, Joel Harris and Barb Van Horn.

Winners for Community Park were Erika Gabrielsen, Keith Hamilton, Helena Wronski, Jon Soderberg, Eric Postel, Chip Hector, Brent Matheson, Scott Matheson, Mark Matheson and Lynn Haggerty.

Nassau medley relay teams which finished first were: 8-u girls (Susan Webb, Shelley Chu, Suzanne Maman, Sarah Deffeyes); 8-u boys (Richard Bolster, Jason Cooper, Chris Daughney, Daniel Dynin); 12-u girls (Nika Nystrom, Amy Feldkamp, Ann Talbott, Connie Betterton); and 17-u boys (Steve Feldkamp, John Healy, Joel Harris, Robbie Hooke.)

Against Trenton Country Club, coach Bruce Nystrom's swimmers won easily to remain the top team in Division I of PASDA. First-place ribbons were won by Shelley Chu, Kelvin Chu, Susan Harris, John Bolster, Val Van Horn, John Healy, Sarah Burkman, Mark Nystrom, Allison Fraker, Van Van Horn, Kiran Cummings, Joel Harris, Chris Daughney, Ann Wawczak and Barb Van Horn.

Head Princeton Trainer to Discuss 'Myths of Sports Medicine' on TV

Dick Malacrea

Dick Malacrea, chief of athletic training and physical therapy at Princeton University, will be featured in a two-part interview this month over New Jersey Television (Channels 23 and 52.) Dick Landis, host for the show, will explore the myths of sports medicine with Malacrea, focusing on practices which have been perpetuated by coaches and athletes and seeking to evaluate their validity.

The first part of the program may be seen Saturday at 4, with the second scheduled a week later at the same hour. Malacrea, completing his first decade of service in his field at Princeton, lives on Village Road East in Dutch Neck.

The first part of the series will deal with the special training meals myth. Is it necessary for athletes to be fed a steak dinner before a big contest? Are such meals really of benefit to the body? Coaches have stressed the importance of training meals but is there a reason for this or should any special foods be eaten at all?

Malacrea will also discuss "heat stress"—what is it and why some coaches insist that players wear rubber suits in order to sweat off weight? Is working out in hot weather dangerous? What does heat stress do to the body?

In addition, part one will delve into the controversy over ice vs. heat in treating sports injuries. The old procedure was to use heat but now ice is favored. When should each be used?

For the second program on August 12, points to be raised include:

Artificial turf is found on many athletic fields—how good is it, or how bad? With several injuries associated with the man-made surface, what are its special problems? With the artificial surface, is there a need for special shoes for wear on the turf and are they effective?

The final topic of the program will be football helmets. Malacrea will address himself to the importance of the right helmet, fitted correctly to save the player from serious injury.

As it transplanted from the French countryside, this Norman Country Home is a delightful contrast to the historic old Colonials on this Western Borough Street. Designed by Thompson and built by Hunt and Augusline, of stucco with wooden lintels and a roof of hand-hewn shingles, only 9 years ago, this exceptional home is suitable for a small family with room for possible expansion. A circular driveway, flagstone courtyard and double doors lead to a vista of spacious rooms with long windows, numerous custom details and every modern convenience. Foyer, living room with fireplace, formal dining room with muralled wall, modern kitchen, laundry, den with wet bar, master bedroom with second fireplace, luxurious dressing room with bath and doors opening to secluded walled terrace—on first floor. Two bedrooms with adjoining bath, large family room with beamed cathedral ceiling on second.
